

The Wrong Fairy Tale
Red Riding Hood and the Three
Billy Goats Gruff

By Tracey Turner, illustrated by Summer Macon

As you read along, ask the child the following questions:

- Small Billy Goat smells something delicious. What do you suppose it might be?
- Why was the Big Bad Wolf drooling?
- How do you think the goats feel about the wolf?
- What do you imagine trolls ordinarily like to eat?
- What do you suppose the troll is planning to do when he enters Grandma's cottage?
- Why does Grandma hide under the bed?
- What words can you think of to describe the troll?
- Who answers Red Riding Hood when she knocks on Grandma's cottage door?
- What is Grandma's brilliant idea?
- What does "grappled" mean?
- Where do you imagine the troll landed when he was butted by the Big Billy Goat Gruff?
- How do you think the goats kept Grandma's lawn mown?
- What are Red Riding Hood and the goats eating at their picnic?
- What food do you like to have for a picnic?

Further questions and activities for after reading the book.

- Ask which is their favorite page in the book and why.
- If the child is familiar with the traditional Red Riding Hood story, ask how this story is different. Which do they prefer?
- Together, choose two other fairy tales and help the child to mix them up to make up and illustrate their own "Wrong Fairy Tale."
