- Made a loud wailing noise.

"You know Dr. Jeanie won't hurt you."

"What would you know, Dog?" spat Primrose. "Nobody does horrible things to your teeth."

I licked my whiskers. "I chew bones and eat good food." I explained. "Also, I am a young dog, so I have young teeth. Calm down. This won't take long if you cooperate."

While Primrose considered that, Al, her person, asked Dr. Jeanie about the python. "Is this escaped snake dangerous to our cats?"

"Cats?" said Dr. Jeanie. "I thought Primrose was your only pet."

"My wife's sister is staying with us, and she brought her Siamese," said Al. "He's a bit of a wanderer."

"I doubt if the python would bother cats," said Dr. Jeanie. "It isn't fully grown."

"It could be dangerous though?"

"It could be," said Dr. Jeanie. "But most animals can be dangerous if
