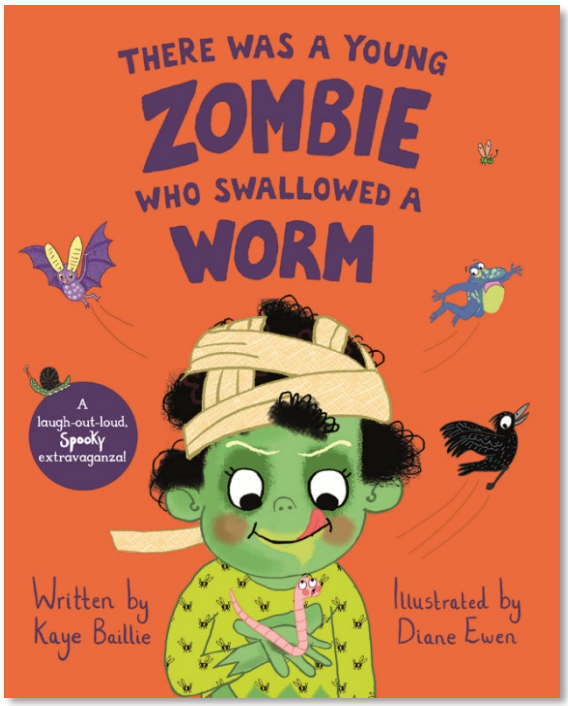
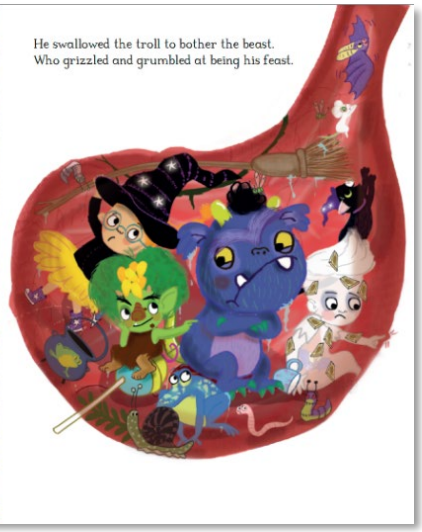
Take one VERY hungry zombie, add toads, witches, bats, trolls, and what do you get? A gruesomely comic Halloween read aloud!



- Based on the much-beloved, cumulative song There Was an Old Lady Who Swallowed a Fly.
- Perfect for an interactive story time.
- Vibrant, detailed artwork captures the happy Halloween spirit.
- Not scary, just fun! An ideal Halloween gift.



Review Praise

"The author's use of rhyme and alliteration adds a playful cadence to the narrative. … a good choice for parents and librarians seeking a Halloween story that will leave youngsters giggling and eager for tales more silly than spooky." – School Library Journal

"This will quickly become a Halloween favorite."
– Children's Literature Comprehensive Database

"… the rhyme scheme makes for a fun readaloud … plenty of chances to get readers up and squirming, fluttering and flapping, giggling, and cackling." – Mom Read It
